CONGRESSIONAL COMMENT.

Jefferson county has three brilliant and deserving gentlemen who feel that they should have the nomination, and are making a laudable effort to secure their solid county delegation, or as much of it as possible. They are J. J. Gill, the glass manufacturer, Judge Mansfield and Hon. Mr. Erskine. The two last named gentlemen are eligible and competent in every respect and would no doubt put up a good campaign, but their good qualities are perhaps not so well known in all parts of the district at this time as are those of Mr. Gill, whose name was presented to the convention when Capt. Danford was nominated some five years ago. At that time he was considered a very strong man and has lost none of his desirable qualifications since. The high estimation in which he is held by the labor organizations and all laborers along the river front in his district, as well as his good standing in the city of Steubenville and in Jefferson county makes him a very popular candidate among the people in general along the river front, as well as in other parts of the district. If elected to Congress he would make an able and excellent representative in whom every class could place full confidence. The Gazette at this time does not care to espouse the cause of any one of the candidates, but is justly proud of the vast amount of fine timber from which the Republican party will select a candidate for Congress on the 12th of next September and elect him by an overwhelming majority on the 7th of November.—[Monroe County Gazette.

Hon. C. L. Weems has secured headquarters for the Martin's Ferry convention. He will be located at S. G. Robinson's.—[Bellare Tribune.

This district is the only one in the entire country, so far as we are now aware, that has a contest on for Congressmen, yet the freaks that have been developed are sufficient for the whole thing. Mr. Scott, whom it is but just to say, was misunderstood in his rather unusual offer, is responsible for the freaks. Mr. Scott made an unusual offer and it was taken seriously. That started the eccentric characters now working and all sorts of offers are now being published. These do no harm, but they rather obscure the main contest which is pretty well narrowed down to but between three, and at most four candidates.—[Belmont Chronicle.

The convention which meets at Martin's Ferry, Sept. 12th, for the purpose of nominating a successor to Capt. Danford, will be a memorable one. With the exception of Mr. Hollingsworth, all candidates are comparatively new men. While a number of the candidates will get no farther than the primary election, there is strong evidence that there are at least five who will cross swords in the nominating convention. Our exchanges say that three candidates will be in to the finish. Gill, of Jefferson, Weems of Belmont, and Hollingsworth, of Harrison. What the strength of these candidates will be we will learn after the primaries of the 2nd of September. If Mr. Gill fails to secure a solid delegation from his own county he will lose an element of strength that is absolutely essential to his success. There is no reason to doubt that Hollingsworth and Weems will go into convention with solid delegations, Weems having more than twice the strength of Hollingsworth. The nomination then must rest with other counties than Belmont and Harrison. The whole number of delegates being 105, 84 votes will nominate. Gill cannot be nominated without receiving in addition to his own county, Carroll, Monroe and fifteen votes from Belmont. Weems outside of his county needs but 23 votes. Hollingsworth is short 38 votes, conceding his own county solid, he will need with Carroll and Monroe solid, 24 votes from Jefferson and Belmont to secure him the nomination. We have said before that it is useless for the electors of this county to think for a moment of dividing Harrison county's delegation. Our hope of success lies in numerical strength, and should anything happen to bring the strength of Hollingsworth below the full delegation of 26 votes, we might as well abandon the contest altogether.—[Harrison County News.

Hon. R. P. Scott and party of friends leave this week for their hunting trip to the Rocky Mountains. Among the party is T. A. Scott, of Cadiz, brother of R. P. Mr. Chisholm, of Baltimore, Mr. Scott's business partner, and two other gentlemen, one from Washington City and the other from the West. The party of five will hunt for big game, principally in the mountains of Wyoming. Mr. Scott expects to arrive at home about the 10th of September, two days prior to the Congressional convention for this district.—[Cadiz Republican.

At Martin's Ferry during the sitting of the convention the ladies of the Presbyterian Church will have a lunch stand where visiting statesmen can get a sandwich and a cup of coffee or glass of lemonade. Several restaurants will be opened, and an effort made to feed the people in that way. Mr. Weems, Belmont county's candidate, will sleep at a private house and have his headquarters in Francis's law office. Messrs. Hollingsworth and Gill will be found at the Bellevue, the only hotel in the town. Others will likely stand around on the street corners. Committees are working to secure accommodations for the convention, but the realization in his excess of zeal has imposed upon them.—[Bellare Independent.

There is no such personal enmity existing between Mr. Gill and Mr. Hollingsworth as the Democratic press has seemed to imagine. There is the natural rivalry existing between them which is common between all candidates for the same office, but nothing more. Personally they are friends, and their respective friends are friends to each other. They are both life-long Republicans, and both personal friends of President McKinley. They both come of Quaker ancestry and may conclude to end the convention with a cordial "hand shake," as is the manner of every well-regulated Quaker meeting. They are both men of character, and show dealing in small animosities either before or after a convention. If the friends of other candidates are expecting a Kilkenny fight between Hollingsworth and Gill they are doomed to disappointment.—[Cadiz Republican.

THE WOMEN'S M. MISSIONARY

Oil at Adena.
The Adena prospect, eight miles from Cadiz, has developed into a good production, and came in yesterday and is reported as pumping from three to four barrels an hour.

Seven Sections.
No. 20 on the Pan Handle last night was made up of seven sections, hauling Atlantic City excursionists. It was one of the largest excursions from points west of here ever run over the Pennsylvania lines. Following the regular section, which is one of the largest and heaviest trains in the country, came the many specials, and by means of the admirable signaling system in use on this road the trains were able to follow each other 10 minutes apart, running 50 miles an hour.

Awful Slaughter.
James Shull, the clothier, who is on a hunting expedition in Springfield township, was heard from to-day when Thos. J. Shannon received the tails of seventeen groundhogs and one squirrel, enclosed in as many empty cartridge shells, accompanied by the following note: "How is this for one day's hunt? If you want a wagon load send in your order. Shot the squirrel in self defense." Shannon says as Jim took nothing but green shells with him, and returned yellow ones, there is a mistake somewhere that James will have to explain to the boys.

Home From the Klondike.
Will H. Egerter passed through the city this morning over the Pan Handle route to his home in Wheeling. Mr. Egerter is just home from the Klondike where he has been gold digging for two years. He landed at Seattle, Wash., a few days ago and went to St. Louis where he took the P. C. & St. L. Ry. for home. It is understood he comes back with a considerable amount of gold dust. Mr. Egerter is a brother-in-law of James Beans, formerly of Steubenville.

Pan Handle Watchman killed.
Isaac Page, an aged watchman, who has been stationed at Cotter's crossing, Boverston, for the past three years, was killed by an extra passenger train Wednesday evening. Mr. Page lived just west of the tunnel, and after his day's work was done he was in the habit of walking up the track to his home. At six o'clock he started for his home as usual. At the tunnel he met a railroad man on a speeder coming from Denzil, and he warned him of the coming train. As he started through the tunnel he met a freight train coming out, which probably made it very smoky. Nothing more of the circumstances are known and his mangled body was found some time later. His son was killed a year ago just east of the tunnel.

Lawn Fete.
The lawn fete given at the handsome home of C. H. Steele, Esq., on North Fourth street, last evening, was a great social and financial success, and netted a neat sum for the benefit of the Congregational Church. Mrs. Steele, assisted by the ladies of the church, did the honors in a charming manner, and the large assemblage was enthusiastic in its praise of the pretty decorations and extensive arrangement of the affair. The lawn was brilliantly illuminated with electric lights and Japanese lanterns, and the various booths were generously patronized. Patrons of orchestra, seated under an arbor, dispensed sweet music during the evening, and another feature of the event was the cake walk, in which numerous ladies and gentlemen participated. The cake was awarded to Mrs. D. W. Matlack and Miss Mollie Trainer, who were justly entitled to the honors.
