TRANSPLANTED

Over the sea sailed the Mayflower
Three hundred long years ago
Bringing stalwart plants to Plymouth
From England's bright hedge-row.

They grew mid storm and disaster,
Were pruned with a sharpened blade,
Which only increased their branches
And greener their verdure made.

Till the land of promise was conquered,
And a forest of liberty grew,
While from every tree top freely
Their flag of victory flew.

While spread on the earth beneath them
Were vestments in royal array,
Wrought of purple asters and sumachs
And the rod with the golden spray.

Well earned these autumnal splendors,
"Old England" made "New" in this land,
For each deep sturdy rootlet
Made both colors and characters grand.

NAME AND HISTORY

The name BARKER is supposed to come from the Anglo-Saxon word Beorc or from the Anglo-French word Berquier, meaning Shepard, some say the first to use the name was a tanner and used the bark of trees in his trade. Variations of the name are Le Barkere; Barke; Barka and Barkar.

The family is of Anglo-Saxon origin and has been a very influential and interesting one.

Sir Christopher Barker, the Garter King of Arms, assisted at the coronation of Anna Boleyn and Edward VI. Robert Barker made the first edition of the King James version of the English Bible in 1611. Edmund Barker was a metaphysician and friend of Samuel Johnson. Collet Barker, 1784-1831, was an explorer and Mt. Barker in Australia was named for him. Benjamin Barker was an artist, whose pictures are in the British Museum. Joseph Barker of Leeds, Eng. founded the sect called Barkerites. George Barker was a philanthropist, whose statue is in Birmingham, Eng. Capt. James Barker assisted in the victory of the Nile. Sir George Barker fought in the Crimean war.

In America, many Barkers served in the early wars, over 200 served in the Revolution, more than a dozen were officers in the war of 1812, many more served in the Civil, Spanish and World's wars. Some of the most illustrious men were Jacob Barker, the banker and ship owner, Abraham Barker, the "Nestor of Finance," Wharton Barker, the Bimetallist, Rear-Admiral Albert S. Barker U.S.N., Prof. George F. Barker, scientist, Col. Thos. Barker, prominent lawyer, Dr. Benj. Fordyce Barker, eminent obstetrical surgeon. So the list goes on of valiant men and women, who became early settlers in America and bore without complaint their full share of the burdens of this Country, loved liberty and their fellowmen, struggled for independence and peace, through every stirring event down to the present day.

Intensive research has failed so far to produce the connecting link for American Barker families with those of England, save in the lines of Robert of Plymouth Colony and his brother John of Duxbury, but the search goes on.

This work is based on Town Records and Deeds, Church Records and Family Records, after exhaustive investigation and study. Where dates and names were uncertain space is given to be filled in later by proven facts. I wish to thank all who have furnished family records and thank especially Mr. H. C. Strippel and Mr. G. F. Dirks of the Genealogical Dept. of N. Y. Public Library and Mr. Chas. Washburn of the library of N. Y. Historical Society, for their untiring and valuable assistance in research.

As no genealogy is perfect or complete and in order to keep up the records, your historian desires to hear family facts and traditions from all Barker descendants in America or elsewhere, that a complete Roll of Honor may be kept.

THE BARKER COAT OF ARMS

The Coat of Arms here shown was confirmed in England in 1278 by Edward I, 1272-1307, and is the earliest known Barker Coat of Arms.

see Robert of Plymouth Colony.

There are over fifty different Barker Coat of Arms, of which your historian has hand painted copies of forty, the most legitimate one for the lines in America to use is the one given here.

The lines of Robert and John also trace back to this Coat of Arms.

JAMES OF RHODE ISLAND

JAMES OF RHODE ISLAND

James Barker is said to have been born in Essex Co. England in 1617, his sister Christiana married as second husband, a Capt. Thos. Beecher and sailed with him to America in 1630, settling in Charlestown, Mass.

James mother having died about 1620, it was but natural for the father (also James by name) to plan to join his eldest daughter in America. On 3-24-1634, Father and son sailed from Southampton, Eng. on the ship Mary & John, Robt. Sayres, Master. The father died on the voyage and James jr. was taken in charge by a passenger, Nicholas Easton, who later married James's sister Christiana.

James was Corporal in 1644 for Newport, R. I., Ensign in 1648, was Member of General Court of Elections, Newport in 1648, in 1655, Ye Rule of Freeman of Ye Colonies of every Towne, James name is on the Newport, R. I. list, in 1655-61-63 he was Member of Court of Commissioners, in 1661 he and 40 others petitioned for a tract of land (now Westerly, R. I.) dividing it into 18 shares, James receiving $\frac{1}{2}$ share, was also one of the trustees, was for many years a teaching brother amongst the Baptists.

On 4-4-1676, it was voted 'that in the troublesome times and straits in this colony, (King Philip's war) the assembly desiring the advise and concurrence of the most judicious inhabitants of it may be had for the whole, we desire at their next sittynge, the company and counsel of Mr. Benedict Arnold, John Clarke, James Barker and 13 others and the General Sergeants, to inform the several persons, the assembly's desire thereon.'

James was Deputy Governor in 1678 after the death of Gov. Coddington. In 1644 he married Barbara, dau. Wm. and Frances (Latham) Dungan. b. 1628; d. ; she was granddaughter of Lewis Latham, Falconer to King Charles I. James d. 1702.

EDWARD OF BRANFORD, CONN.

EDWARD OF BRANFORD, CONN.

Edward Barker, born about 1625, was said to have come from England in 1640, and was a well known merchant in 1650 in New Haven, Conn., where he carried on an extensive trade with Barbados, West Indies.

Not being in accord with the church government in the Colony of New Haven, forty seven men of whom Edward was one, drew up and signed a New Plantation & Church Covenant 1-20-1667. This Covenant was to insure the Congregational form of church worship and to provide for settlement of boundary and other questions. Wishing a near by locality, they selected Branford, a few miles from New Haven.

On 11-13-1671 Abraham Pierson of Newark, N. J. sold to Edward all his accommodations in Branford, including house, home-lot, orchard, horse pasture and other lands with a "brown bay horse without any artificial marke, very well known and often seen about Quinnabaugh," receiving in payment 120 pounds.

Being a man of distinction, Edward was prominent in all civic and other affairs, was agent for Branford in conveying town lands 11-5-1677 was on committee 2-25-1678 to view land capable of improvement, was on com. 8-15-1678 to treat with Mr Harrison in reference "to his coming amonst us to carry on Ye work of Ye Ministry." On 6-17-1680 was to treat with New Haven concerning some pretended claims on lands, on 3-31-1681 was to designate what houses shall be fortified.

When the towns of Connecticut were required by the General Court "to take a patent of the land to hold title to the lands," the town of Branford appointed a committee of Edward and eight others and it is recorded "The said lands having been purchased or otherwise lawfully obtained of the Indian native proprietors, the Patent was granted 2-16-1685 to Edward Barker and others, the present inhabitants of Branford, their heirs and assigns forever." signed and sealed, Robert Treat, Governor, by order of the General Court, John Allyn, Secy.

Edward conveyed homestead and land to his son William 7-20-1701 and died about 1703. He married Elizabeth b.
; d. 4-16-1705.

112 Major Samuel Still Augustus received a rare college education and was said to be the only man in the American army who could speak French and English equally well. He entered the army in 1775, serving as Serg. in Capt. Wm. Douglas Co., Col. D. Wooster's Reg. later becoming Adj. on the staff of Brig. Gen. "Mad Anthony" Wayne, while here, Gen. Marquis de La Fayette needed an aid-de-camp who could quickly interpret his orders, as La Fayette's English could not be easily understood by his men, so Samuel was appointed, they being about the same age, grew very fond of each other during the intimate life of nearly seven years, La Fayette often calling him "My brave, my good, my virtuous, my adopted brother" and was always loud in his praise of his aid-de-camp. Samuel resigned from the army 4-13-1782.

After his father's death, he dropped the name of Still from his name but always signed the rest of his name in full. His estates at La Grange, N. Y. were ceded to him by the Government for distinguished service under Lafayette, here he held many local offices and was elected to the N. Y. Legislature, serving nine sessions 1788-1811. Gen. La Fayette when hearing of this honor, sent the following flattering acrostic

Sage of the East! where wisdom rears her head
 Augustus, taught in Virtue's path to tread
 'Mid thousands of his race, elected stands
 Unanimous to Legislative bands;
 Endowed with every art to frame just laws,
 Learns to hate vice, to virtue gives applause.

LAFAYETTE'S HEADQUARTERS AT GENEVA, N. Y.

Augustus, Oh! thy name that's ever dear
 Unrivalled stands to crown each passing year;
 Great are the virtues that exalt thy mind,
 Unenvied merit marks thy worth refined
 Sincerely rigid for your country's right
 To save her Liberty you deigned to fight;
 Undaunted courage graced your manly brow,
 Secured such honors as the Gods endow.

Bright is the page; the record of thy days
 Attracts my muse thus to rehearse thy praise
 Rejoice then, patriots, statesmen, all rejoice!
 Kindle his praises with one general voice!
 Emblazon out his deeds, his virtues prize,
 Reiterate his praises to the skies!

M. de La Fayette

P. S. The Colonel will readily apologise for the inaccuracies of an unskillful muse, and be convinced that the high estimation of his amiable character could alone actuate the author of the foregoing

ROBERT OF PLYMOUTH COLONY

Barker

ROBERT OF PLYMOUTH COLONY, MASS.

The link between the lines of Robert Barker of Plymouth Colony, his brother John of Duxbury, Mass. and the English ancestors is clearly shown by the coat-of-arms used by these brothers and their father in England. This coat-of-arms was found on the seal on a deed signed by Robert's descendants of Scituate, Mass. in 1694 and was originally granted to Robert of Kent, England when knighted by James I. in 1602. The arms were described in heraldic terms as; Barry of ten or and sable, over all a bend gules. Crest: Out of a ducal coronet, an Eagle displayed sable, beaked and legged gules. Robert jr. bore the same arms as his father but his brother John differenced his by "Over all a bend or."

This connecting link has caused an intensive search among the records to the earliest known English ancestor and briefly brought down to the present day.

THE PRINCIPAL VISITATIONS OF SHROPSHIRE, England commenced the pedigree of the B A R K E R family with Randulph de Calverhall, tenant in fee of the Manor of Calverhall in 1200, his son was William Fitz-Ralph de Calverhall, of Blanc-minster in 1219, his son was William de Calverhall 1255, his son was William de Calverhall 1284, his son was Randulph or Richard de Calverhall 1319; "In the summer of 1278, a royal writ by Edward I. ordered all freeholders who held lands to the value of twenty pounds to receive knighthood," so Randulph de Calverhall bore the first known Barker arms, described as; Azure, 5 escallops in cross, or. Crest, on a rock argent, a Falcon close, or.

Randulph's son was William de Calverhall: "The Manor of Calverhall in the time of Edward II. formed part of the possessions of Bartholomew de Badlesmere, upon whose attender and execution the tenants of the Manor would share in his disgrace and fall. William de Calverhall seems to have fled southwards, and reappeared at Hallon, under the name of William de Barker. The name Calverhall, after being dropped by the family for more than 200 years, appears to have been resumed as an alias upon their resuming connections with the north of the county, where, besides land in Goulston, they became possessed of estates at Wolverton, Colchurst, etc. upon which the elder branches settled, while the younger, according to the custom of the Manor, continued to hold Aston in Calverley.

William de Calverhall now was William le Barker of Hallon, his son was Roger le Barker, died 1368, his son was William Barker of Hallon, died 1411, his son was Henry Barker of Hallon, died 1438, his son was William of Hallon, died 1480, his son was John of Hallon, 1507, his son was John of Aston 1531, his son was Humphrey of Aston 1538, his son was William of Claverly, who married Margaret, dau. and heir of John Goulston of Goulston, parish Cheswardine, England, their son William of Colchurst married Joan, dau. of Wm. Horne, their son John of Colchurst married Eliz., dau. of Hugh Sandford, their son George of Colchurst married Catherine, dau. Thos. Bulkeley, their son Robert married Catherine, dau. of Geo. Ackworth of Kent. Their sons John and Robert were said to have gone to New England about 1628-30.

Robert Barker and his brother John were among the early adventurers in Plymouth, Mass., being young men of some means, they soon became dissatisfied with the dull life they were leading and resolved to start out into the wilderness for a new home. They took a negro as an assistant, bought a boat at Plymouth and sailed along the coast until they came to the Great River (later North River) which they entered and sailed up to the Namasakeeset stream. Arriving at Indian Pond, in the late autumn and deeming this place to meet the requirements for their purpose of establishing a Trading Post, they built a hut for the winter and as soon as Spring came commenced their house in what is now the town of Pembroke, Mass. This house was built of flat stones, laid in clay mortar and covered with shed roof. It was 15 feet square, 6 ft. high, and containing but one room with a huge fireplace, later a frame addition was made and the home was used by descendants of the family until after 1883. It was adapted for defense as well as trading, the strength of the building, its central position, the existence of a well within its walls, caused it to be made a Garrison-House during King Philip's war in 1679, the old port holes existed until the house was taken down a few years ago. Your historian treasures some strips of wall paper and an old shingle taken from this house, which is claimed by the people of Pembroke, Mass. to be the oldest dwelling house in the United States.

Robert was a bricklayer in 1640 and bought 40 acres of upland that year, was part owner of the ferry his brother ran in 1641, also bought 100 acres in Marshfield, Mass., was a member of the Marshfield military co. under Lt. Nathaniel Thomas in 1643, was surveyor of Marshfield in 1645, 1648 and of Duxbury 1654, 1672, 1677, 1679; Constable of Marshfield 1646, also its Grand juryman 1669. was admitted freeman 6-6-1654, took the oath of fidelity in 1659, was credited with changing the spelling of the old form Barkar to Barker.

He was licensed 7-7-1646 to keep an inn in Marshfield to retail wine, which he cancelled 6-5-1666. The Court at Plymouth, Mass. on 3-5-1668 granted him 9½ acres of meadow at Robinson's Creek, North River, Duxbury. He prospered in his new home and left at his death in 1691, L 142, 1 s, 11 d. 57 Capt. Isaac followed the sea, later being the Commander of a vessel that sailed for many years between Newport, R. I. and the West Indies, after accumulating a modest fortune, he bought a farm near Newport. In 1761 there being a great scarcity of salt, he was tempted by his old employers to make a voyage, his son Michael entreated his father to take him along. Isaac was quite unwilling but finally consented, on the return with a full cargo of salt, the vessel with all on board was lost in a storm. He married 3-30-1745 Eliz., dau. Isaac and Eliz. () Howland.

118 Jacob was one of the remarkable men of this country. Not only was he one of the shrewdest business men of his day, an able banker and student of political economy, but also a successful lawyer and politician. At 21, he entered mercantile life, owned five vessels, becoming later the second largest ship owner in the United States. When Fulton built his first steamboat, Jacob imported the first marine engine and as his trade extended to European countries, especially to Russia, he was commissioned to buy and sell ships for several foreign governments. During the war of 1812, all of his ships were captured, but, in spite of the enormous loss, he raised nearly $8,000,000. for the Government, saying; "If the Country breaks, I want to break with it." He founded the Exchange Bank in 1815, established the 'Union' newspaper, was the first to advocate the building of the Erie Canal. In politics he was a Dem., an original member of Tammany Hall, and nominated Andrew Jackson for President. He was an intimate friend of Pres. James Madison. During the war of 1812, Mrs Dolly Madison cut down the portrait of Pres. Washington by Stuart as she was about to flee from the Presidential House and said to Jacob Barker "Save that picture if possible, if not, destroy it, under no circumstances allow it to fall into the hands of the British." He rolled the picture up and left it in charge of a farmer where he spent the night. A few weeks later restored it to Mrs Madison and it now hangs in the Blue Room of the White House. Jacob served a term in the State Senate. In 1834 he moved from New York to New Orleans, La., where he was admitted to the bar, later engaging in banking. He married 8-27-1801 Eliz. H., dau. Thos. and Anna (Rodman) Hazard. b. 12-2-1782; d. 12-29-1866.

JOHN OF DUXBURY, MASS.

JOHN OF DUXBURY, MASS.

John Barker, son of Sir Robert and Catherine (Ackworth) Barker, direct descendant of Randolph de Calverhall, 1200 of England, with his brother Robert, history states, were among the early adventurers that arrived in Plymouth, Mass. about 1628. Having some means they set out from the Plymouth Colony to make homes for themselves, going by boat along the coast until they came to the North River (near Cape Cod) sailing down this, they reached what is now that part of Pembroke, Mass. known as Herringbrook.

Here they camped for the winter and the following spring ground was broken and a house built.

John lived in that part of Plymouth which was set off in 1637 as Duxbury. He was a brickmason and agreed to teach Wm. Barden the trade of a bricklayer, at the end of his time giving him (Wm) "20 bushels of corn, 2 suits of apparel and an ewe goat's lamb."

In 1638 he moved to Marshfield, Mass. and bought a ferry at Jones River, where he covenanted to keep it "at two pence a person until a bridge is built" in 1643 he was a member of the Marshfield Military Co. under Lt. Nathaniel Thomas, in 1648, he had some disagreement with a neighbor about a boundary line. The Court requested John Alden and Myles Standish to "set at rights such differences as are betwixt them".

On June 5, 1651 he was made a freeman and on 12-14-1652, was drowned at his ferry, leaving an estate of £131. He married 1632 Ann, dau. John and Ann () Williams.

Issue born in Duxbury and Marshfield, Mass.

5 John lived in Barnstable 1676-83, thence to Marshfield and finally to Scituate, Mass. was a serg. in King Philips war and severely wounded and in 1680 "was freed from bearing arms for the wounds in the late war." When young, he prosecuted his uncle John Williams for misuse of his office as guardian and was interested in legal matters always. He was Deputy from Marshfield in 1689 to the General Court, from Scituate in 1706, 1712, 1719, served as justice of peace and was so respected that he was often referee in important cases. He married 1-18-1677 Desire, dau. Anthony and Ann (Clark) Annable. b. 10-16-1658; d. 7-24-1706; married (2) 1-22-1707 Mrs Hannah Cushing, dau. 10 Samuel Williams at the age of eight inherited the Barker homestead at Scituate, Mass. This house was built by John Williams, father in law of Robert and John Barker, as early as 1634 and was for a time used as a garrison-house, as appears from its massive inner walls of brick pierced with loopholes. The son of John Williams, Capt. John died childless in 1694 and left the house, with 200 acres of land to his grand nephew, Samuel Williams. The place remained in the Barker family for six or seven generations, the house being in a good state of preservation, though the interior has been modernized. It stands upon high ground with an extensive view of the harbor and sea, about 1920 it became the Hatherly Inn. He married 12-25-1706 Hannah, dau. Rev. RICHARD OF ANDOVER, MASS.

ANCESTRAL HOME AND THE FRYE ELM, 1725-1876, ANDOVER, MASS.

RICHARD OF ANDOVER, MASS.

Richard Barker, with his wife Joannah settled and is the only citizen known from the records to have been in Andover, Mass. in 1643.

"The record of transfer of farm from Wm. Howes of Topsfield to Richard Barker in 1643 being first date recorded in Andover History. The transfer included house, land, stock, corn and hay"

His was the fourth name on the list of Freeholders, and he continued to buy large tracts of land, mainly around the pond. Later he signed with 23 others for more land, "there being from forty to a hundred ready to go up and settle with sons and servants if they can get possession of Granite Hills, north of the Merrimac. They try for Concord but have to take Methuen. Richard holds the pocketbook."

He was Selectman of Andover until his death, and his name was connected with the first recorded business transaction and all town affairs of importance for fifty years. In 1645 Richard's name was on the Church Com. and he was one of ten freeholders (required by law to constitute a church) to organize the First Baptist Church at No. Andover, 10-24-1645.

His descendants are not famous as politicians, but aspire to Military honors and in 1678, Richard's name appears on the list of Royal Allegiance, with five of his sons over sixteen years of age. He married Joannah, b. ; d. 4-11-1687. He d. 3-18-1693.

JAMES OF ROWLEY, MASS.

JAMES OF ROWLEY, MASS.

James Barker and his wife Grace and their son Barzillai were, with his brother Thomas and wife Mary, among those twenty Puritan families who came from England under the leadership of Rev. Ezekel Rogers and who were described by him as "Godly men and most of them of good estate." They arrived at Salem, Mass. December 1638. The following April, having joined some forty others, they bought land adjacent to Newbury and Ipswich, Mass. and established the town of Rowley, named after the parish which had been in charge of the Rev. E. Rogers in Yorkshire, England. The act of incorporation was dated 9-4-1640 and the settlers labored in Common for about five years.

Thomas was made freeman 5-13-1640 and died without issue 11-11-1650. James, according to his will was "born at Stragewell, in Low Suffolk in Old England" in 1618. He was made freeman 10-7-1640 and was one of the first twenty on the tax list in 1639. He shared in the first and later divisions of land in Rowley and had an acre and a half house lot in 1643. A tailor by trade, also a successful farmer and active in town affairs. He was for several years a Judge of delinquents under the law which fixed those who refused to attend when summoned to town meeting, he also served frequently as juryman. In Nov. 1677 was one of the first tything-men selected by the town.

His first wife Grace, whom he married in England, 1-25-1635, died and was buried in Rowley 2-27-1665. He married (2) 5-22-1666 Mary, widow of John Wyatte, b. ; d. 4-12-1684. James Barker died 9-5-1678.

Issue born in England and Rowley, Mass.

SAMUEL OF DELAWARE

PENN TREATY ELM AND FAIRMAN'S MANSION

SAMUEL OF DELAWARE

Sir William Penn had a claim upon the Government of England of sixteen thousand pounds, this was not settled before his death; so was inherited by his son William. In 1681 the claim was paid by granting to the son, large territories in North America (the present state of Pennsylvania).

In 1682 William Penn came to America on the ship Welcome and with him came his friend Samuel Barker, who belonged to the Society of Friends.

On March 27, 1685, a grant was made by William Penn of 200 acres of land and purchased by Samuel Barker. It was located in what is now New Castle Co. Delaware and was called Barkers Bridge. Here the homestead was built and remained in the family until the death of William Barker in 1840.

There is no record yet found of whom Samuel Barker married. He died intestate July 1720 and was buried in the Old Swedes Churchyard in Wilmington, Del.

WOMAN INVADES ADVERTISING FIELD

WOMAN INVADES ADVERTISING FIELD

By "Sticking Everlastingly at it" wins Success in a Profession that is Supposed to be Exclusively a Masculine Prerogative

By LUCY CLEVELAND

For a woman to become successful in the advertising world—where only men are supposed to touch the light guitar of flowing phrases (so desperately hard to manufacture and "put over"), that sing success for themselves and the firms they serve, is surely an achievement worthy of mention.

E. Frye Barker has this achievement to her credit.

To be born of good old Puritan stock; to have the blood of five Colonial governors in one's ancestral line; to have good health; to be college bred; to be happily engaged to be married; to have lived in Europe's glowing lands; to have wealth sufficient for all desires—what more could one ask? Such was the rosy outlook on life of Miss E. Frye Barker at the threshold of womanhood. But the wheel turned! Death suddenly snatched Romance. Health suffered under the blow, and money faded under the bad management of trustees. And naturally she had absolutely no business training with which to face the world.

The finest preparation for wearing your acquired prosperity gracefully is to have known the worth—and the worthlessness—of money.

What to do? was the question.

Previous to college days, Miss Barker had studied stenography and typewriting, but made up her mind not to admit it to the business world, as she was determined to make her brain rather than her hands earn a living. So she turned her attention to settlement work—the first "job" toward the building of a home. To see others out of it—bitterly deprived—if you have a grain of the schist of Plymouth Rock in you, you want to help them into it, as you help yourself. And besides, Miss Barker is a descendant of the celebrated Elizabeth Fry, the "prison angel" of dread Newgate, in London. So she established a social settlement in Portland, Me., put it on a good running basis, persuaded a young woman to train for head worker, and the following year turned the work over to her—realizing that there was not enough money in this work for a living. She returned to New York to look for work, her personal friends were bankers and brokers, and they only required stenographers. She registered at ten agencies—from which to this day she never has heard a word. She did, however, get some translating from French and German—which didn't pay even moderately well.

How our friends love us—if we, in adversity, don't bother them! But there always are coral atolls in the Pacific of ingratitude. In E. Frye Barker's case it was the round and cheery face of a business acquaintance who asked her if she knew anything of editorial work. She immediately said "Yes," altho at the time she was not sure whether editors wrote with a pencil or a pen.

The University Publishing Co. needed help on its editorial staff. Followed her entrance into the editorial field—thru an interview with the president. She frankly stated that she had had no experience in the business world, and volunteered to work the first month for nothing, resolved to live on ham-and-hope for four weeks. So she was inducted into the editorial staff. If she was worth anything she was to be paid; if not, discharged. Her first two weeks comprised the monotonous duty of copying data in the old Astor Library. Then she was asked if she could write a biography, and told to write a sample one. The next two weeks were spent in reading galley proof! At the end of the month she was told that as she had worked without question or murmur at the mediocre tasks cheerfully and thoroly accomplished, she would be put permanently on the editorial staff. Looming larger on her horizon now arose the advertising idea! And she had a salary! She was put to work on a set of books, each book with a big man for the editor, and sub-editors to do the work. Thus she began the editorial work of preparing biographies, writing editorials for the books and revising manuscripts. During this time, Hamilton Wright Mabie was so pleased with the work that she had done as his sub-editor that he borrowed her from the firm to do research work for himself and sent her a personal check besides her regular salary.

Good training in all this for her dimly-apprehended life-work—looking for the salient points of business; learning to touch in the high lights, and where to put the little red spot on the canvas. Her tracks were merging toward the great world of American advertising.

One thought pursued her constantly: "Take a course in advertising!" And she did. Working at night, and doing the salaried work by day. At last she applied for a position with the largest advertising concern in the country, The Geo. Batten Co.

"What can you do?" asked the president.

"Try me!" answered E. Frye Barker, bravely.

"Here is a set of twelve books," said the president. "We have to have a two-page magazine advertisement written for these in forty-eight hours. Go to work!"

She worked all that night and all the next night. But the "ad" was in the hands of the president on time.

She heard nothing for two weeks—and then one morning there came a note from the advertising firm bidding her to "call at the office."

Promptly she responded, and the world swam before her eyes when the president offered her a position in the famous advertising office—at twice the salary she was then making.

She found the position no bed of roses. Her hard work had only just begun. But—the snap to "hard work" when you are in your chosen field! Constantly to create new ideas for material that constantly has been advertised before, and still is being advertised—that's a serious job. But it was tremendously good training for the big success coming. When the first week's salary came in, a check for five dollars for the first two-page advertisement was also handed to her; and little as it was, Miss Barker gloried in it, for it was the door opened into the advertising world. She longed to frame that check, but stern bread and butter demands overcame sentiment. She began to learn the details of placing advertisements; the "set-up" and display of type; the form of contracts for advertising space, and how to fit your pungent word into space measured by the agate rule. She believed that she had reached her goal. But no!

On the edge of stepping up into the managership of the advertising department of a magazine, Miss Barker came down with malignant diphtheria. Result, submergence of plans. Upon returning from recuperation in the South, she found herself in New York City, with no position. Money losses followed in ventures of floating calendars. Banished to out-of-doors' life by brutally frank doctors, she became a life insurance agent, tho feeling that she never could sell a gold dollar for one hundred cents. However, she applied some valuable advertising ideas to this work, and learned some lessons. But she acknowledged that she was a failure at this job. Still behind the big forehead of this woman there was a novel wisdom which she had wrung from experience.

Finally health returned. Then the start in the advertising business on her own responsibility, swimming with the tide that was to bear her to success.

The prominent firm for whom she had worked was nobly kind to her, sending her work and frankly stating that "no one can write advertisements for books as you do."

The Ubrad Co. was so pleased with the advertising work done for them that Miss Barker was made one of their board of directors. She wrote booklets and advertisements for such well-known firms as American Tobacco Co., Borden's Milk Co., etc., conducted a woman's and also a children's page in a trades paper. Upon request of the Geo. A. Powers Printing concern, and also of a lithograph firm, she agreed to write the advertisements for their clients. How many sides there are to advertising! The president of the University Publishing Company, who first gave her her start, asked her to undertake a department for answering the letters of mothers on what their children should read.

When the war came upon us, Miss Barker was equipped to plunge into the advertising side of it, and she wrote and spoke, without recompense, for the Liberty Loans, the Hospital Drives, and for the Red Cross.

It has been said that all writing people sooner or later enter the "movie" field. Miss Barker is no exception to this. She has written advertisements for the picture people; also photo-plays, and numberless synopses of other people's plays for the use of advance agents; she has written books, "Successful Photoplay Writing," "The Art of Photoplay Writing," "When to Sell Your Manuscripts." Even with all this work she finds time to be a historian and has written several genealogies. The bold and gentle spirit of her pioneer ancestors doubtless aids her here. The great War has taught us all that the veil is thinner than we have any idea of.

Now, after a hard, earnest, uphill struggle, E. Frye Barker holds the unique place of consulting advertiser, she writes only under contract, answering all letters, but granting interviews only by appointment. And she emphatically states that "real advertisers are born, not made."
